Mark McKergow

Mark McKergow is currently the chair of Sunday Assembly Edinburgh. He has been around Sunday Assembly since the very start in 2013, was the first network co-ordinator with Sanderson and Pippa and also edits Sunday Assembly News, our three-times-a-year round up of what's going on in the world of SA. Mark also plays the saxophone and can often be seen playing and yelling along to songs both in Edinburgh and at SA gatherings.

Helping new Sunday Assembly chapters to start and thrive.

How can we help new (and existing) chapters of Sunday Assembly to start-up, build and thrive? This conversation will review what we know (so far), what's currently going on to help new start-ups and discuss how to build on this to help new Sunday Assemblies appear around the world. We have a lot of interest in terms of people seeing and liking the idea of Sunday Assembly – how to encourage them to take the next step? We can also look to find lessons from successful start-ups and also movements with similar dynamics such as parkrun.
